

“Contemporary Consideration: Co-Parenting and the Best Interests of Children in the Context of C-78 and New Tech”

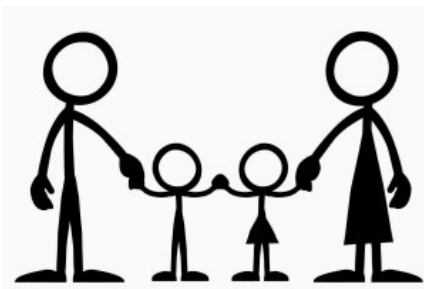

By Rebecca Bromwich

Program Director for the Graduate Diploma in Conflict Resolution,
Carleton University

Tuesday, January 15, 2019

11:30 am – 1:00 pm (lunch provided)

FTX202

This talk will be an interactive conversation engaging how recent family law reform (in Bill C-78) and the proliferation of online technologies and their uses in legal tech platforms affect the best interests of children. Rebecca will discuss how her Law Foundation of Ontario funded research relates to the best interests of Ontario's children, and will seek feedback and participation from participants.

Rebecca Jaremko Bromwich is Program Director for the Graduate Diploma in Conflict Resolution program in the Department of Law and Legal Studies at Carleton University. She is a member of OAFM, of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Institute of Ontario (ADRIO), and serves on the Board of FDRIO. Rebecca has a Certificate from the Program on Negotiation Master Class and a Certificate in Mediation from the Program on Negotiation at Harvard Law School. Rebecca has actively practiced family law since her Call to the Ontario Bar in 2003, and currently serves as a per diem member of Ottawa's Family Court Duty Counsel Panel for Legal Aid Ontario. She has a grant from the Law Foundation of Ontario's Access to Justice in Family Law Fund.
