

Logic Model

uOttawa-KCMUCo partnership to enhance health equity in Northern Tanzania

Improved healthcare access and health equity for local populations, especially women, in Kilimanjaro Region, Northern Tanzania.

Improved ability of KCMC hospital to respond to healthcare needs of the population, especially women, in Northern Tanzania		Strengthened ability of KCMUCo to address public health challenges being faced by the local population, especially women, in Northern Tanzania		Enhanced ability of faculty and learners at uOttawa and KCMUCo to collaboratively act to reduce health inequities within the local population in Northern Tanzania
Strengthened sub-specialty clinical knowledge and skills, including surgical, obstetrical, and anesthetic care, by clinicians at KCMC in Northern Tanzania	Strengthened capacity in clinical research, teaching and leadership by trainees and staff at KCMC in Northern Tanzania	Strengthened knowledge and skills in advanced epidemiological and biostatistical methods by faculty and trainees at KCMUCo	Strengthened research capacity to improve public health evidence, policy and practice by students and faculty at KCMUCo	Increased competence in effective cross-cultural communication by students and faculty at University of Ottawa and KCMUCo	Enhanced knowledge and awareness of ethical and equitable global health practices by students and faculty at University of Ottawa and KCMUCo
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Collaborative clinical sub-specialty training provided by University of Ottawa clinicians to staff at KCMC • Equipment and resources for clinical skills training provided to KCMC 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mentorship in clinical research provided by University of Ottawa clinicians to trainees at KCMC/KCMUCo • Mentorship in clinical teaching and leadership provided by University of Ottawa clinicians to clinical staff at KCMC/KCMUCo 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Advances courses in biostatistics developed and jointly delivered to students by University of Ottawa and KCMUCo faculty • Workshops and short courses in epidemiology delivered to KCMUCo faculty and students 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Collaborative research projects in public health and epidemiology conducted by University of Ottawa and KCMUCo • Workshops on research methods delivered to KCMUCo faculty and students 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Bi-directional annual exchanges of medical and graduate students organized by University of Ottawa and KCMUCo • Pre-departure training that emphasizes ethical principles and post-trip debriefing developed and delivered to University of Ottawa and KCMUCo students 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Joint assessment of mutual interests and needs to inform priorities for equitable global health partnership completed by University of Ottawa and KCMUCo • Workshops on ethical and equitable global health practices delivered to University of Ottawa and KCMUCo faculty and students