Summer Program for Youth Who Stutter

What
A week-long day-camp for teens who stutter. Organized by a registered speech pathologist and students from the Speech Language Pathology program at the University of Ottawa.

When
July 8-12, 2019, 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. daily

Where
1750 Russell Rd., Ottawa, Ontario, K1G 5Z6

Who
Youth between 9-14 years, French and English speakers, referral by a speech-language pathologist or family physician

How much
$500, including therapy, recreational fees, and lunch daily

Goal of the camp
This program is designed to give teenagers who stutter a safe and supportive place in which to "let stuttering out." By studying their own pattern of stuttering, they are guided in making decisions about how to manage their speech. The focus of the camp will be learning to work through challenging speaking situations, fostering support amongst peers who stutter and establishing short and long term communication goals for the next school year. Speech-related work will include a daily sports break and social activities. Lunch at the cafeteria is included in the fee.
